

Excess H2O Plus Mercury Plunge Equals Campus Winter Wonderland

IOWA WEATHER ran through its bag of tricks this week and came up with fog, rain, sleet and snow. Meanwhile, enterprising Wartburg students came up with a canoe and planted it in the watery ice rink. The next day the campus was smothered in snow.

Ten Seniors To Join Ranks Of Alumni At Semester

Ten Wartburg students have fulfilled graduation requirements and will be leaving after semester examinations.

Those receiving B. A. degrees in English are James Adix, Emmons, Minn., who will work for the Admissions Office until next fall, when he will enter the seminary; Harley Joens, Waverly, who plans to teach next semester; and Mary Ellen Zellmer, Kingsley, who also plans to teach.

Biology Gets Third Degree

Receiving degrees in biology are George Herbener of Louisville, Ky.; Marlys Madsen, Nichols, who will teach in Newhall; and Paul Rothfusz, Ashley, N.D., who plans to attend the seminary next fall.

Duane Grimm, Delhi, will graduate in business administration and will work for Lutheran Brotherhood as a life insurance underwriter. Ronald Stahlberg, Monticello, will earn his degree in business administration and economics and will work for Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Eissinger To Take Census

James Eissinger, Wishek, N.D., will graduate in philosophy and German. He will be employed by the U.S. Census Bureau until fall, when he plans to attend law school.

Charlene Linderwell of Strawberry Point will receive a bachelor of science degree in elementary education. She will teach fifth grade at Guttenberg next semester.

Senate Elections Slated Tuesday

Elections will be held by the junior and senior classes Tuesday to fill the seats which will be left vacant in the Student Senate second semester.

Resignations were received from Dick Jebsen, junior from Blue Island, Ill., and Jim Eissinger, senior, from Wishek, N.D. A job conflict will cause Jebsen's vacancy, while Eissinger's is due to graduation.

Nomination blanks will be available in the senate office until Monday noon, according to Norm Litzner, Student Body president.

Trumpet To Host Confab

Plans are in the hatching stage for the first annual Iowa College Editors Conference, which will be held at Wartburg Feb. 26-27.

Helping the Trumpet with the conference are the Des Moines Register and Tribune, Waverly Independent and Democrat and the School of Journalism at the State University of Iowa, Iowa City, with possible aid from other state dailies.

On the conference agenda

Forum For Convo

Wartburg students will have the chance to ask questions and voice their opinions concerning college life at Tuesday's convocation. An Open Forum will be held with Robert Smith, Speech Department, as moderator, assisted by representatives of the administration.

Because of semester exams there will be no convocation on Thursday.

KWAR Installs Carrier Current

Most students know about the campus radio station, KWAR. But for many students that is as far as it goes because Wartburg AM radio sets will not pick up the FM programs of KWAR.

This can all be changed by a system called Carrier Current, which the station has already installed in Clinton Hall and hopes to put into operation in Centennial Hall in the near future. However, according to Dennis Thurow, station manager, there are a few problems still to work out, such as lack of funds and personnel.

On Carrier Current AM, high frequency currents come directly from the transmitter through power lines to student radios without having to pass through an antenna or through the air. After Carrier Current is installed, students will be able to tune to KWAR at 750 on the AM dial.

Irving R. Levine, recognized as one of our country's foremost authorities on Russia, will be on stage tomorrow night for the Artist Series' fourth presentation of the year.

Levine will begin his lecture at 8 p.m. in Knights Gym. Following the formal presentation will be a question and answer session, according to Dr. A. W. Swensen, chairman of the Artist Series Committee.

Students and other members of the audience are requested to prepare questions for Levine ahead of time.

"The more and harder the questions, the better," stated Swensen.

He also emphasized that students should not pass up the opportunity to hear Levine.

"Regardless of approaching semester tests, missing the speech would be a big mistake," he said. "Levine is one of the greatest speakers in America today on this subject, and will add greatly to the education of any student."

Tickets will still be available at the door, according to Swensen.

Award Available

The Wartburg Press is again offering a scholarship or scholarships amounting to $300 to any students actively engaged in work on one of the three college publications with at least one year of experience.

Applicants must fill out application blanks before the end of the semester. Blanks are available from Mrs. Margaret Garland, Journalism Department.

Brotherhood Meet Here In February

Wartburg campus will be the scene of the 13th annual Brotherhood Institute, to be held Tuesday, Feb. 16.

Sponsored jointly by the Iowa District ALC, Wartburg College and St. Paul's parish, the institute will include Brotherhoods from the ALC, ELC and UELC churches.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. in Knights Gymnasium.

This event has drawn as many as 750 Brotherhood members. About that many are expected this year if the weather is good, according to Norm Fintel, Public Relations director.

Stacks, Study, Stupor — It's That Time

EXAMS HAVE STRUCK Wartburg again. The current bout of the biennial plague begins Thursday and isn't slated to leave campus until a week from Wednesday. Symptoms have begun to appear already. Freshman Diana Gilbert prepares to tackle the disease at its source — her textbooks. Freshman Janice Wegenast is deeply engaged in the fight, but classmate Nancy Weymiller succumbs to battle fatigue.

Senior Dinners Held By Alumni

A series of senior dinners will be held at Carver's Restaurant beginning tomorrow night at 5:30 to acquaint seniors with the function of the Alumni Association program and the services offered.

Split into groups, the class members will meet three consecutive Sundays, Jan. 17, 31 and Feb. 7, at the same time and place, according to Alumni Director Norm Fintel.

Guest speaker for the event tomorrow evening will be Bruno Schlachtenhaufen, Waterloo pastor and president of the Alumni Association. Vice President Clarence Pries, Cedar Falls High School instructor, will speak Jan. 31; and Walter Fredrick, superintendent of schools at Garnavillo, past-president and member of the board, will talk Feb. 7.

No Break Has Its Point

A temporary calendar scheduling innovation will undergo a stiff test next week when Wartburg students will be required to wipe the first semester slate clean on Wednesday, then answer roll for the second semester on Thursday.

The scheduling committee, a subcommittee of the Educational Policies Committee, affixed the present alternation with dual purpose in mind. Primarily, the committee was forced to adapt such a schedule in order to perfectly balance the first and second semester. They have never been equal before.

Secondly, they introduced the plan as an experiment, because some question the necessity of a semester break. In the past, exams actually ended on Friday and if a student's schedule of tests ran until that day, it permitted him only the weekend as a break.

By moving the time ahead, the committee had in sight the finishing of exams on Friday of the second semester, thus making it unnecessary to hold students two days into the next week, come spring.

Some students, however, protest the innovation, basing their argument on the need for an immediate period of relaxation after the exam week grind. Some faculty members are also dissatisfied with the approaching quick change because it exerts them extra in getting the papers corrected and final grades in.

The faculty members' gripe isn't legitimate, however, since they approved the calendar after the Policies Committee submitted it to their vote. Whether or not the students have an honest complaint can probably be determined more readily when next weekend rolls around.

At any rate, the present experiment is only a part of a long-range plan to determine a permanent workable calendar that will satisfy all organizations on campus. Choir tour, Band tour, athletic teams, Castle Singers' tour, vacation periods and a multitude of other headaches enter into the problem for the scheduling committee.

It appears that some cooperation is necessary on the part of students, since it is apparent that the administration is also interested in tearing down some of the walls of tradition.

Honor System Upended

Morningside College recently announced plans to attempt an honor system in its classes. Interested students however, wisely revolted yesterday and caused the proposal to be voted down.

The college reported that colleges and universities across the country were awaiting results of the trial.

Such a program, we feel, may be fine, but why make an issue of it? Why should a virtue such as honesty be focused in the eyes of the nation? How can you cultivate personal integrity by exploiting it?

And why should one institution wait and accept the returns from another before trying it? These institutions should have enough reliance in their own students to attempt such a program of their own if they feel excessive cheating is prevalent.

We contend that this was entirely the wrong approach. Honor, we feel, isn't a group effort. It is personal and it is also inherent. The true honor system would remove all tags of experimentation and administrative proctoring.

Honor is silent, individualistic and deep-seated. It pays benefits to one who practices, not a collective group of bargainers.

TRUMPET RECOMMENDS

Irving Levine's 'Mainstreet, U.S.S.R.' Informative, Entertaining — Reviewer

By Grace Jahn
"Mainstreet, U.S.S.R."
Irving R. Levine. Doubleday, 1959, $4.50, 408 pages.

A book, packed full of information that is highly interesting and entertaining —this is "Mainstreet, U.S.S.R."

Author Irving R. Levine, who will lecture on "American-Soviet Relations in 1960" as Wartburg's fourth Artist Series tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Knights Gym, spent nearly five years in Russia acting as news correspondent for NBC, all the while gathering material for his book.

Levine Lights Up
Levine's book brings to light the facts about Russia which the American people would most like to hear.
What do Russians eat? How do they live? What kinds of cars do they drive? Do they have any freedom? Why are they so far ahead of the United States scientifically? These and many more questions are answered in "Mainstreet U.S.S.R."

The Russia described by Levine is one of vast change, marked by crowded housing conditions, lack of consumer goods and pitiful waste of manpower.

Levine writes, "It's a land bursting suddenly from the age of the sickle into the era of the sputnik."

Levine corrects many fallacies concerning Russia and the Russian people. First of all, there is no talk of revolution. There are, however, complaints against the government, mostly concerning the lack of consumer goods.

The Russian people do not want liberation by the American Armed Forces. There are no midnight calls or secret police.

Few Are 'Red'
Only four per cent of all Russians are members of the Communist Party. It is Party membership, rather than money, which gains the Russian privileges. Communists claim to be "working toward" a classless society.
Not only is the book chocked full of information, but each chapter shows its share of Levine's and the Russians' sense of humor. The author begins each chapter with an amusing anecdote or story.

Beginning the chapter entitled "No News in 'Isvestia'," Levine recounts a wry little Russian story: "'Have you heard? 'Pravda' is running a contest for the best political joke. The first prize is twenty years.'"

Some of the information about Russia reads like a leftover from the Stalin era—the propaganda in "Pravda"; radio Moscow, which is heard everywhere and is almost impossible to shut off; extremely high prices; poor quality and quantity of consumer goods; the continuing existence of slave labor camps; and, of course, censorship.

Not Optimistic
Levine is not overly optimistic about the fate of Russia and the West in the future. "The danger that lies over the horizon of the future is this: when the passing of time convinces even the most fanatic of Communist believers that the Western democracies are not in a state of inevitable decay and that the triumph of Communism is not predestined, what is their reaction to be? Will they accept the falseness of their dogma that Communism must triumph? Will their currently professed doctrine of temporary coexistence be revised to one of eternal coexistence?

"Or will Communism, having failed to become universal by peaceful means, be impelled to fulfill its 'destiny' by force of arms?"

That's "Mainstreet, U.S.S.R." —pure information and pleasurable reading.

The canoe found floating in the "duck refuge" wasn't put there in anticipation of an early spring and those moonlight nights. It was put there in the hope that it would further the Wartburg Conservation Committee. In fact, I hear that the Phy. Ed. Department is offering a course in canoeing next semester. How about it, Ax?

I hope those poor boys from Loras (Now let me think; is that in East Dubuque?) weren't in doubt as to whether they were being shot at or not. If they have that idea, they're badly mistaken. It was only Dick James letting off a little of that pent up steam. The "steam" wasn't in the flask either. That was orange juice.

I had to beg the adviser to let this little bit of information get into the Trumpet. For my own personal satisfaction, I would like to know if the Iron Admiral, commonly known as the Historian of Guam, can tell me what he was doing with a shuffleboard puck in his pocket? I have heard that he was quite surprised to find it there. Mr. Ringgenberg, can you tell me how it got there?

Simpson Redmen Try For Knights' Scalps Tonight

U. I. University Also On Warpath; Battle Here Tues.

By Tom Kuckkhahn
Wartburg's basketball team, now in sole possession of first place in the Iowa Conference, will try to stretch its record to 6-0 tonight when it entertains the Redmen from Simpson College. Game time is 7:30.

The Redmen are currently in seventh place with a 2-3 record, but they will be up for this one, and if junior center Bob Tidgren is hitting, the Knights will have to be at their best to ring up a victory. Tidgren is averaging close to 30 points a game. Tuesday night he scored 34 against Iowa Wesleyan.

Peacock Test Important
Tuesday night the Knights will be host to Upper Iowa University, the surprise of the Iowa Conference this year, in their most important game to date.

The Peacocks had been in a first-place tie with the Axmen, but were upset by a fired-up Dubuque five Tuesday evening. The appearance of that big mark in the lost column will undoubtedly make the Peacocks all the more formidable, because they can hardly afford to give the Knights a two-game lead at this stage of the conference race.

UIU Games Always Tough
The Upper Iowa-Wartburg rivalry has produced many close, rough and temper-flaring clashes in the past, and Tuesday's game will probably be no exception.

The Blue and White have been getting balanced scoring from veteran John Tierney, frosh Jim Hutchinson and soph Mike Scott. The starting five have been hitting at an unbelievable 50 per cent for the season.

Peacocks have been averaging 10 points a game more on offense than the Knights have, but the Knights have been better defensively by 6 points. If, as some experts say, the home floor is worth 8 points, then that would make Wartburg a 4-point favorite. No doubt that's how close this contest could be.

SM-O-O-TH, PHILOSOPHIZES REMMERS

Cincinnati Cagers Have 'The Big O'; Wartburg Boasts 'The Big Double O'

By Charles Jepsen
Cincinnati Bearcats, with fabulous Oscar Robertson, dubbed "The Big G", has nothing on the Wartburg Knights.
When Ax Bundgaard's basketballers unveil for a game, there stands towering senior Norm Remmers with an "00" on the back of his jersey.

Remmers, who stands 6'4" and weighs 200 pounds, earned three basketball and four baseball letters while in high school.
After graduation, Norm, who hails from Nebraska, decided to attend Wartburg College because it was the closest ALC school. Thus far, Norm has earned two major letters for his play on the hardwood.

Norm Is Philosopher
Remmers is an arts-seminary student with a major in philosophy. He plans to attend the sem next year but says he doesn't want to become a parish minister. Instead, he has aspirations of becoming an institutional chaplain.

Norm also indicated his interest in philosophy by adding that he might continue and take graduate work in that field.

Remmers stays at the Children's Home, where he earns his board and room by working a minimum of 20 hours a week.

He Handles Recreation
Says Norm, "I handle the recreation program and am in charge of the physical education courses at the campus school."

Remmers states that his main reason for playing basketball is his love of the game.

"Basketball gives me a chance to participate in an extracurricular activity," he commented. "This is something which I consider to be very important."

Rebounding Comes Hard
According to Remmers, rebounding consists

Picking Up Splinters

By Chuck Jepsen

In games through last week, the Knights have three men averaging in double figures. Center John Tuecke is tops with 20 points per game, followed by Don Hein with 15, and Leroy Bose-neiler with 10.

Tuecke has been even tougher in conference action, averaging around 25 points per game and doing an excellent job off the boards.

Wartburg's offense has been potent in the conference, averaging about 87 points per game, while the defense has limited the opposition to less than 70 per contest.

Coach Norm Johansen's young wrestling squad appears to be shaping up nicely, as the team breezed past Grinnell Tuesday night, 29-3.

Of the eight weight divisions, five are manned by freshmen. Frosh Bill Smith has gotten off to a flying start by pinning his first two opponents, the last one in 1:16.

Crowd favorite again this year is soph Al Hassman, who a season ago was one of the top point-getters for the Knights. He pinned his Grinnell opponent in 4:56.

The team does not wrestle at home again until it takes on Carleton Feb. 6.

★ ★ ★ ★
An interesting event will be the Iowa Conference Meet scheduled for March 5. The meet was called off last year when one team decided not to attend.

★ ★ ★ ★
Wartburg doesn't have to worry about facing an unbeaten team any longer. Upper Iowa was defeated Tuesday night by Dubuque 103-96 in one of the few games played in the Peacock's tiny gymnasium, known to Upper Iowa fans as "the blood pit."

Loras Nips Squires 78-75

Wartburg Squires dropped their third close contest in a row Wednesday night as Loras edged the freshmen 78-75 in overtime.

As in their previous games, Coach Wendy Liemohn's squad held a halftime lead, this time a 41-36 margin, as David Brunscheen, Bob Harken and Marilyn (Tiny) Eitmann led the offensive attack. Loras came back to outscore the Squires 39-34 in the last half, and then added a free throw and a tip-in in a sudden-death overtime to cop the contest.

Brunscheen, 6'4" center, stayed hot in the last half and totaled 32 points in the game. He hit 12 of 20 shots. Harken added 18 counters, and Eitmann poked in 12. Camody notched 22 points and Esee 21 to pace the Loras freshmen.

Norm said about the upcoming Upper Iowa game, "We know this will be a rough game. It could be won or lost on the boards."

Norm Does More, Too

In addition to basketball, Norm participates in Chi Rho, pre-theological society, is a member of the church council and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges.

At the next basketball game, look for the big "00."

Matmen Trying Winona; Grinnell Is 29-3 Victim

By Don Bathgate

Wartburg's wrestlers take to the road this week to face what may prove to be some powerful competition.

First stop for the Knights will be Winona State Teachers in Winona, Minn., where they will tangle with Jerry Wedemeier and company this afternoon.

Wedemeier, a heavyweight and a former Waverly High School star, won the heavyweight division of the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., college open wrestling tournament during Christmas vacation. This meet is rated as one of the outstanding tournaments in the East.

According to the Winona coach, Bob Jones, Wedemeier is now a definite Olympic team threat. He is also the defending National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics champion.

Tuesday the Knights will be at Loras College in Dubuque. Both teams should be rather evenly matched, as Loras nudged Augustana of Rock Island, Ill., earlier this week by an 18-13 score.

Last Saturday the Knights dropped their opening meet, to Augustana by a 15-13 score, but bounced back with a 29-3 win over Grinnell Tuesday evening in Knights Gym.

Lloyd Casey captured the first bout by forfeit for the Knights, and then team captain John Sternberg disposed of Bill Patton 6-2. Wartburg picked up another quick five points as the Knights' William Smith took care of Mike Burr in 1 minute 16 seconds.

Jim Mueller added another three points as he decided on Dave Manley 3-0, and Robert Janssen added another three with a 9-0 decision over Ron Dorr.

Dick Harris picked up Grinnell's only score of the evening as he outpointed Roger Hildebrandt 10-3.

Al Hassman ended the meet on a bright side by pinning Grinnell's Karl Krumel in 4 minutes 55 seconds. Heavyweight Leroy Scharnhorst rounded out the scoring with a win by forfeit to give the Knights a 29-3 victory.

Waverly, Cotta Top IM Tussle

Waverly in the National League and Cotta in the American League emerged as the teams to beat after last week's intramural action.

Both teams have 2-0 marks. In fact, the leagues have identical records in the win-loss column.

Howard Simpson again led Waverly as he hit 17 points in his team's 54-36 verdict against North Hall Thursday night. Dean Zimmerman helped bring North Hall into a 21-21 tie at halftime and scored 16 overall to lead the losers.

Vollmer House upended Grossmann II 54-38 Thursday night in another National League game. Harold Olesen topped the victors again with 19 points, and Robert Stroud had 18 for Grossmann II.

Cotta disposed of Clinton III 52-34 in an American League game Thursday after defeating Grossmann II by one point the week previous to stay unbeaten. Derald Gourley hit 15 for Cotta, and Eldon DeWeerth scored 8 for the third floor quintet.

Grossmann II's American League team beat Grossmann I and Basement 37-25 on the same day. Don Ringgenberg accounted for 12 points for Grossmann II, and Craig Sathoff collected an equal number for the lower floor.

Knights Smother Loras Wednesday

Wartburg Knights continued their winning ways Wednesday night as they routed Loras College 85-58.

The Knights started out hot and jumped off to an early 12-4 lead. They continued their excellent shooting and left the floor at the intermission with a 47-20 edge.

Second half was a different story, as both teams scored 38 points. Coach Ax Bundgaard cleared his bench in the 27-point rout.

Senior center John Tuecke led the Knights in scoring with 26 points. Don Hein and Norm Remmers were next in the scoring column with 21 and 12 points, respectively.

This fall Flachman was chosen editor for the first yearbook ever to be issued by the seminary at Capital University.

Wandering With Wandersee

By Winnie

Anyone noticed the signs in Luther Hall on the subject of dress-up night? They've been there over a month now. Could this possibly be a threat to dissolve our seemingly stable All-Dressed-Up-and-No-Place-to-Go-Club? Pretty radical idea, considering the club has the largest student representation on campus.

Well, boys, dates are getting cheaper all the time, at least for everyone who took advantage of the All-School Fun Night last night and had fun sans cost.

The festive occasion, sponsored by WAA, was held in Knights Gymnasium and featured entertainment and refreshments.

Latest news from KWAR is that it is rumored all staff members had to sign an oath to the effect that they had nothing to do with Payola. You just can't be too careful these days.

Couldn't help noticing the canoe in the W-Club skating pond the other day. It's hard telling which organization came up with that idea, but I wonder who will think of raising ducks. It surely makes the traditional fishpond look kind of insignificant. (Also heard it rumored that the P.E. Department is offering a course in canoeing next semester.)

Last Monday at SEA, Kathy Grimm was elected alternate delegate to the students' ISEA. The convention will be held Feb. 4 and 5. Other members attending are Kathy Arns, Deloris Rieck and Carolyn Krueger.

Sounds like the debate team is taking a little vacation very soon. Eight members will be attending a debate tournament in Marysville, Kan. this week.

They will be gone for three days. The mode of transportation is adviser Bob Smith's station wagon. It should be what is commonly termed as "a gay old time."

Last night LSA held its meeting at Pastor Dell's house. The object of the meeting was to "sound off," so you can bet it was somewhat interesting.

He was also voted an honorary member of the International Mark Twain Society, which is composed mainly of authors. According to Dr. Liemohn, the organization is to unite the whole world in bonds of cultural peace.
